

AN EVENING OF NERUDA

IN A PERFORMANCE FEATURING TRANSLATIONS BY THE POET WILLIAM O'DALY
WITH MUSIC BY BASSIST GLEN MOORE

November 4, 2011
Friday, 7:30 pm
First Unitarian Church
Eliot Chapel
1011 SW 12th, Portland
Tickets $12

No-host reception to follow
at Cassidy's,
1331 SW Washington, Portland

Writing Workshop
with William O'Daly
November 5, 2011
Saturday, 1-4 pm

First Unitarian Church
Buchan Building
1011 SW 12th Portland

The Rose of Energy— Poetry, Translation, Metaphor, and Truth: This combination seminar and workshop will explore poetic language, various aspects of metaphor and the intimate relationship between any poem and its incarnation in another language. Participants will be encouraged—as readers and appreciators, as well as writers—to explore and expand their horizons in poetry, to strengthen confidence in their unique sensibility and voice. We will read the poetry of Pablo Neruda by a variety of translators, write in response to a Neruda poem and enjoy activities that illuminate the connections among people of different cultures and backgrounds. Facilitator William O'Daly is a poet, translator and fiction writer. His works include eight books he has translated of Chilean Nobel Laureate Pablo Neruda published by Copper Canyon Press. Cost: $60 (1st Unitarian Pledging $45). To register, call First Unitarian at 503-228-6389, x17 or email kradditz@firstunitarianportland.org. For information: www.firstunitarianportland.org

Presented by First Unitarian Church Adult Programs & Mountain Writers Series, with support from private donations, RACC & Copper Canyon Press

Mountain Writers Series
2804 SE 27th, #2 · Portland OR 97202 · 503.232.4517
pdxmws@mountainwriters.org ~ www.mountainwriters.org